

W. H. VANDERBILT, 3d, IN LOVE RIFT; EMILY SEEKS PARIS DIVORCE, RUMOR

He Denies Break; Friends Say He Admits It Privately

Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, 3d, is in Paris, where she went ten days ago to obtain a divorce after only three years of married life, it was reported in exclusive society circles today.

While William H. Vanderbilt, 3d, denied his wife had gone abroad to seek a divorce, he admitted that she had sailed for Paris, leaving their 17-month-old daughter in his care. Mr. Vanderbilt recently took a new apartment.

A significant indication of a rift in the Vanderbilts' marital affairs occurred last month, when Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt jointly petitioned the town council of Portsmouth, R. I., to appoint Mr. Vanderbilt legal guardian of their child. At that time it was said this legal action was taken to enable Mr. Vanderbilt to look after valuable securities placed in his daughter's name, but close friends are reported to have viewed the proceedings as the forerunner of the eventual severance of the Vanderbilt marital ties.

About the same time Mr. Vanderbilt sold his home at 9 East 74th St. While Mrs. Vanderbilt maintained a residence at the Hotel Weylin, 54th Street and Madison Avenue, Mr. Vanderbilt took over a 5th Avenue apartment.

"It's not true," said Mr. Vanderbilt when asked about the reported divorce proceedings, although he is said to have told friends soon after Mrs. Vanderbilt sailed that they would soon be parted.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was the former Emily O'Neill Davies and has an independent income.

When Mrs. Vanderbilt went to Paris last spring reports, were current that all was not well in the Vanderbilt household. It is understood that friends used their good influences to heal the breach and Mrs. Vanderbilt returned to America and went to the Vanderbilt farm near Newport.

Since then their differences are said to have reached such a stage that Mrs. Vanderbilt determined to end matters by going to France for a divorce.

Vanderbilt Faces Divorce Suit

Taylor Maid Keeps Silent On Gem Theft

Still stonily silent in regard to the disappearance of $250,000 worth of jewels from the home of Myron C. Taylor, at 16 East 70th St., where she was employed as a maid, Margaret McConnanchin, 52, is being held without bail today while the police continue their probe of the robbery.

The woman's attorney tried to gain her dismissal in Harlem Court, saying the court had no right to hold his client, but Magistrate Levine told him to "consult the Supreme Court for an order of release if he felt that way about it."

MOVE FOR TRAIN SAFETY
To better safeguard passengers and employees, the Pennsylvania Railroad has issued orders dispensing entirely with the "angle cocks," hitherto required as a necessary part of the air brake equipment on passenger trains.

Teeth in Lung, She Sues Dentist, Asking $50,000

Miss Kathleen Brennan, 35, of West Brighton, S. I., is suing her dentist, Dr. Adolph Greenberg, in the Richmond County Court at St. George for $50,000, alleging that, due to his negligence, she swallowed parts of two teeth.

They lodged in the right lung, she says, resulting in a long illness and great suffering.

The defendant denied the charge, and says he used every modern precaution.

Finds No Theft of Love In Sister Versus Sister

A young matron, accused of stealing the love of her elder sister's husband, has been exonerated by Vice Chancellor John Griffin in the Jersey City Chancery Court.

He refused to believe that Mrs. Mabel Dillon of 119 Grant Ave. had been guilty of misconduct with William Breuder, husband of Mrs. Dillon's sister, Lillian.

The charge was brought to light through a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Breuder, who alleged that her husband deserted his family and began showing attentions upon the younger woman. Testimony was offered to show that he remained out until late hours.

The defendant and codefendant denied the allegations, and the court decided that there was no actual divorce evidence.

Houdini's Secrets Placed in Custody Of His Brother

Hopes of many magicians and the public that with the opening of Houdini's will would be revealed the secret of his many remarkable feats were shattered today when it was learned that in his last testament the great magician directs that all his secrets, illusions and stage apparatus be placed in the custody of his brother, Dr. Theodore Weiss.

After the death of Dr. Weiss they are to be destroyed, according to the directions in Houdini's will, which has just been filed for probate.

Houdini's widow is named executrix of his estate, the value of which is not made known.

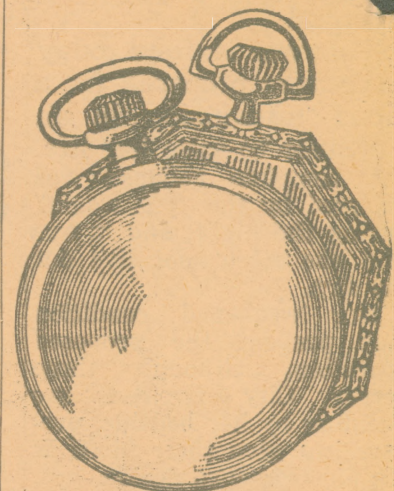

The widow, his five brothers and a sister will share the bulk of the estate.
